ENGINEERING AND MANUFACTURING

A LONG-STANDING TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE

Training solutions for Engineering and Manufacturing

These industries are the backbone of Great Britain and it is important that businesses in these sectors continue to innovate and push the boundaries in order to remain ahead in a competitive marketplace. Our courses will help your employees to gain the skills required to revolutionize and lead your business forward.

Our staff are highly experienced professionals who have worked in these sectors and know the legislation which defines your sector. You can be sure that by choosing Nelson and Colne College Business Centre to deliver your training, your staff are being taught by trainers and assessors who really do know what is required in your industry.

All of our training can be delivered at a time and place to suit you. We appreciate that a 'one size fits all' approach is not effective in modern businesses and therefore we are happy to work with you to design a training programme which is specific to your particular needs and will help your business to move forward.
